America Calls to Her Own People to Give Thanks on This Glorious Day

THE unfolding of the years brings again uppermost upon the deathless roll of time that essentially American day of pause, of thought and reflection—THANKSGIVING.

WHEREVER Americans move and have being, that word ties them to the homeland—THANKSGIVING.

THROUGH all the history that has etched records on the palimpsest of America the deep sincere thought of Thanksgiving shows clear today; through all the scars of time and scratches of national and radical passion, it comes to us, a clear call from the hard pressed New England colony of pioneers, and each year as a nation we renew that early thought and send it on to the future with strengthened outline.

HERE in California, in the sunny land, the thought comes with force accumulative in the realization of the blessings showered upon this land of glowing life, health, and in gratitude to the Almighty that has permitted us to bring here the precious freight of our hours on earth to be transmitted into golden moments in the golden state.

LET us be grateful today that we are permitted to live in California. That we are privileged to settle in Glendale, blessed beyond the wildest dream of those men and women of New England who in those early days were impelled to thank God for the little of which we have the fullness.

HAD not that deep religious thought of Thanksgiving been so deeply implanted in our nation life by those early pioneers on the rugged, icy shore of New England that cold day, we might not, under the providence of God, there invoked, be today under our flag, in our own country, in Glendale, California.

VERDUGO PARK IS ENDORSED BY THE REALTY BOARD

Unanimously Votes It Was Worth the Price Paid by City Council

By unanimous vote the Glendale Realty Board at its meeting Wednesday endorsed the purchase of the Glendale-Verdugo park, which was secured several months ago by the Glendale city council. It was the consensus of opinion of the thirty realtors present that the park is worth every cent paid by the council and that in years to come it will enhance greatly in value.

It was stated that twelve applications for membership in the board were received at the office of the secretary during the past ten days, and that several more will be forthcoming within a few days.

The board endorsed the plan of holding the 1923 convention of the state realty organization at Sacramento.

It was unanimously decided by the board to endorse the community Christmas tree and to do everything possible to make it a success.

C. C. Tatum, president of the California State Realty association, was present and delivered a stirring address, in which he complimented the Glendale board on the growth it had made since its inception. He urged the local members to attend the 1922 State convention which is to be held at Santa Ana on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

O. A. Vicory of Los Angeles, also was present and addressed the board.

A committee consisting of Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman; James Yale, W. Wallace Plumb, James W. Pearson, A. L. Baird and Mrs. Mabel L. Ticht was appointed to work in conjunction with the city authorities in checking up the various pieces of the property in the city to see if there is anything against them and if so, what.

UNLUCK FOR TURK.
LUCK FOR DINNER

RAYMOND, Wash., Nov. 30.—Come and rejoice with me for I have found that which was lost. Mrs. D. B. Looney of Lebam, near here, called to neighbors. In dressing a fowl she found her lost diamond in its gizzard. The stone had been missing two months.

The "Acid Test" of Glendale

To every city in its youth, as to every youth in his day, comes a test of judgment of intrinsic values.

Glendale today is "under the acid" from which shall come a better, bigger-minded, stronger, more resolute, city of the Verdugo Glen, to which each year will come a Thanksgiving Day marked with grateful memory of the men and woman who today are under the test, defending this commonwealth from the lure of Los Angeles.

The lure of Los Angeles, backed by the mighty magnetism of geographical grossness, has reduced one prosperous, enterprising community of Southern California after another, to abject, spiritless forms of their former selves, with the inspiration departed. Places where subdividers, real estate dealers and merchants have gone, and once proud civic improvements degenerate, under the ever-increasing bonds and bondage of Los Angeles. This is a fact.

For the unthinking among us, the lure of partnership with Los Angeles, the glowing monument to the early fathers of Southern California, is potent. They do not know that the inspiration of the pioneering fathers of that once desert has passed. That while Los Angeles is known the world over as a name of a place, it is best known among her neighbors as a place with a name—and that, not the best.

So, under the lure, dazzled by the admittedly valueless promises of a council that may be swept aside any moment, the misguided here have banded together to see annexation through. So, too, the biggest visioned folks have banded to see through annexation.

The Glendale Daily Press earnestly hopes this Thanksgiving every taxpayer will apply to himself the facts that have been brought out. The overburden of taxes of the giant city; his respective position if the city of Glendale is annexed; the fate of those communities that have gone into the bigger city; the communications from the railroad commission, that geography rules utility rates, and the statement of Councilman Criswell that the promises of his associates are "not worth the paper they are written on," as reported by Colonel Everington at Monday night's anti-annexation meeting.

It is thus the acid test must be applied to the city of Glendale, through the reasoning power of her citizens each for him and herself. And the community reaction, we believe, will give us back an unhesitating, stronger Glendale, moving forward with every atom of the aroused thinking power of her citizenry.

A community receives no better government than it demands. There can be no better government than that of Glendale when she throws off the unbalancing magnetism of Los Angeles, rejects the lure of her potential magnitude presented by her high-power propaganda and turns again to the watchful care of her own affairs and upbuilding.

Let this Thanksgiving Day be marked with a red mile stone in the wise and logical geometrical growth of a great city here.

If housecleaning is before us—let us do it in Glendale, where we all live—not in Los Angeles.

REAL DAY OF THANKS AWAITS SOME FOLKS

George Lindsey Recovers
$70 Worth of Loot from Sheriff's Discovery

Glendaleans whose homes have been looted during the last few months may have a real Thanksgiving today by calling at the Sheriff's office.

There they may find some if not all, of the plunder taken from their homes.

George Lindsey, associate architect of the Union High School, tipped off by H. V. Henry of the Eagle Glen Heights subdivision, returned to Glendale today gladdened by about $70 of phonograph records, part of the loot of his home stolen months ago.

All of the loot was taken from the home of R. C. Parcell, the perfumed burglar, who robbed about 200 homes of Eagle Rock during the last few months.

The recovery was due to the shrewd suspicions of the proprietor of the Sunshine Grocery at Colorado and Broadway.

A few weeks ago two men in an automobile attempted to hold up the butcher store in the vicinity. They were driven off with a revolver.

A little later the proprietor of the grocery store became suspicious of an automobile across the street from her place. She sent her son to get the number.

She gave the number to an Eagle Rock policeman. The latter traced the owner to his residence. There the man said he had not robbed any one. The loot was in plain sight.

When the policeman told the sheriff's office, the latter went to the home and found the burglar had fled. They took the loot he left.

"There's any quantity of goods there," said Lindsey. "I hope other Glendaleans will be as lucky as I am."

CRANBERRIES WERE NOT HIGH ENOUGH

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—It cost Louis Spelling, fruit peddler, $25 for alleged profiteering in cranberries. The judge said he had no right to hit his customer in the eye with an over-ripe apple, even though the latter called him a "profiteer."

Thanksgiving is Donation Day at the Children's Hospital

SUNSET BOULEVARD AND VERMONT AVENUE, LOS ANGELES

What You Can Do to Help the Hospital

An Annual Membership is $5.00. This is within the means of everyone and is an ideal way to support the hospital.

Adult Life Membership is $50.00;
Child's Life Membership is $25.00.

Supporting Membership is $100.00 per year.

$300.00 given the first year, with $50.00 each succeeding year, entitles you to name a child's crib. These cribs are known as "named cribs" and the name of the donor remains on crib as long as annual subscription is maintained.

$500.00 annually supports a bed; $1000 names a bed.

A gift of $5000.00 at any one time endows a crib in perpetuity, permits you to name crib and also to designate patient to occupy crib, subject to the rules of the hospital. Hospital reserves right to use crib for any free patient when crib is not filled by donor.

Ten thousand dollars, given at one time, endows a bed in perpetuity.

A gift of $15,000.00 at one time endows a room in perpetuity.

Any sum may at any time be added to the general endowment fund, the income of which is used to meet general expenses. This endowment fund is now disproportionately small.

Any endowment for a special purpose will always be welcomed; our needs are many and the officers of the hospital will be glad to consult with anyone contemplating a special endowment.

The Federal Income Tax Law enables one to actually give the Children's Hospital Society a larger amount than it costs him to make the gift.

YOU CAN MAKE THESE CHILDREN AS HAPPY AS THESE CHILDREN

What One Can Do to Help the Hospital

There are many smaller ways in which you can help the Children's Hospital—and your help through these channels will be just as much appreciated.

You can buy milk for one baby for one month or for one year by becoming an honorary member of the Los Angeles Auxiliary.

You can donate garments for the Baby Ward and assist the Auxiliary in sewing.

You can put your child's name on the Cradle Roll.

You can supply a brace for a crippled child, for from $15.00 to $75.00, or you can volunteer your services to the Children's Committee for one of its many activities.

You can drive your machine in the Motor Corps and assist it in transporting little patients to and from the hospital.

You can work at the hospital in taking records and weighing babies.

You can assist the Hollywood, Hermosa or El Segundo Auxiliaries, if you live in their locality.

You can interest a group of friends in your own locality to form an auxiliary. Officers of the hospital would be glad to confer with anyone wishing to do this.

You can make direct donations to the hospital of fruit and vegetables, fresh and canned; jellies, linen of all kinds, children's nightdresses, or material for making same.

You can furnish new curtains, rugs or furniture for any of the wards or nurses' rooms.

If you can do any of these things communicate with—

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH

Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

D.H. Smith

Banks and business houses of Glendale will be closed in celebration of Thanksgiving Day. This day is a legal holiday throughout the nation. Through custom the last Thursday of November is regularly appointed for the festivity by proclamation of federal and state executives.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION

President Harding in his proclamation setting aside November 30 as Thanksgiving Day calls upon the people of the United States to "gather at their family altars and in their houses of worship to render thanks to God for the bounties they have enjoyed and to petition that these may be continued in the year before us."

The reason of this proclamation is described by the President as follows:

"In the beginning of our country, the custom was established by the devout fathers of observing annually a day of thanksgiving for the bounties and protection which Divine Providence had extended throughout the year. It has come to be perhaps the most characteristic of our National observances and as the season approaches for its annual recurrence, it is fitting, formally, to direct attention to this ancient institution of our people and to call upon them again to unite in its appropriate celebration."

GROWTH OF CUSTOM

After the first harvest of the New England colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford declared a day of Thanksgiving and prayer. In 1623 a day of fasting and prayer in the midst of drought was changed into thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers.

Gradually the custom of setting aside a day of thanksgiving spread through the various States until, in 1864, President Lincoln made it a national holiday by proclamation and since then presidents have issued Thanksgiving proclamations, generally designating the last Thursday of November.

SAVERS THANKFUL

Among the patrons of the Glendale Branches of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank are many who, through their industry and thrift, have cause to be particularly thankful today. These are the people who have systematically saved a portion of all that they have earned, who started with modest savings accounts, persistently building until today they have sufficiently large balances to make it possible for them to avail themselves of desirable opportunities as well as affording them a bulwark of protection against adversity.

GLENDAL ROTARY CLUB PRACTICES XMAS CAROLS

Regular Meeting Has the Thanksgiving Day Atmosphere

The regular meeting of Glendale Rotary club was held on Wednesday instead of Thursday on account of the latter being Thanksgiving day, and was in the nature of a noon luncheon at the chamber of commerce auditorium. Among the visitors were the following from Burbank: J. C. Crawford, mayor of Burbank; Mr. Sanderson, insurance; and Mr. King, building and loan secretary, representing those desirous of organizing a Rotary club in Burbank.

In the absence of Francis J. W. Henry, singing was led by Owen Emery. The club members practiced a few Christmas carols. All of the organizations in the city have been requested to include carols as part of their program, and in preparation of the community Christmas program and sing to be held the day before Christmas.

Mrs. John Robert, white, chairman of the Glendale committee in charge of the Red Cross roll call drive, was a guest. A telegram was read from George B. Karr from Kansas City, stating that he would be meeting with the Rotary club at Parsons, Kan. A number of piano selections by Paul Carson, who is organist at the Glendale theatre, were much appreciated.

Roy L. Kent, president, called on George Bentley, Al Eastman and Ed Hewitt, Rotary members who were elected to the chamber of commerce board of directors, for talks. The following group chairman for December were named: No. 1—Ed Phillips, No. 2—Dan Kelly, No. 3—Paul Carson, No. 4—Ernest Ford, No. 5—Dick W. Brown. Group 5 will have charge of the program for next Thursday and group 4 is to furnish the committee for the reception of guests.

KIDDIES' HOSPITAL HOLDS DONATION DAY TODAY

Thanksgiving Joy Is Dependent on Your Gift Right Now

Thanksgiving is donation day at the Children's hospital, an appeal from the hospital for aid, and particularly for canned fruits, jellies, and jams gives people of Glendale an opportunity to fulfill that "highest duty to God—service to children."

Assistance can be given the hospital in a variety of ways completely explained on another page of this paper. Donations for the hospital are being received by Roberts & Echols Drug company in Glendale.

An annual membership, the money from which goes for the benefit of the hospital is $5, an adult life membership is $25, and a child's life membership is $25. A supporting membership in the Children's hospital is $100 per year, or $300 given the first year and $50 each succeeding year entitles the donor to a name on some child's crib. A gift of $500 supports a bed in a gift of $15,000 endows a room in perpetuity.

The Children's hospital is glad to receive even the smallest contribution. In addition to contributions of money the hospital suggests a number of ways whereby people can help the organization. Garments for children are always welcome, and direct donations of fruit and vegetables fresh from the garden will help in the great task of feeding and clothing the needy children at the hospital.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Three automobile accidents occurred in Glendale yesterday. Automobiles driven by C. R. Blundell, Hotel Gray, Glendale, and a representative of the Brunner Marble and Tile company, Los Angeles, collided at the corner of Brand and Broadway at 6 o'clock last night. No one was injured.

Another accident occurred when automobiles belonging to W. J. Anderson, of Pasadena, and S. S. Bear, 2057 North Brand boulevard, came together on East Broadway. The mixup occurred at 9 o'clock last night, but the damage was slight.

Kate S. Block, 915 Kenneth road, and a person whose name could not be learned, were driving machines that collided at Brand and Broadway at 5 o'clock last night. Little damage was done.

Truths in Epigram

He who gives himself airs of importance exhibits the credentials of impotence.—Lavater.

THE SECOND NILE

The importance of the work of the Colorado river commission is not to be over-estimated. The vital character of this work is evident. Its ultimate effect, stupendous and benign, hardly yet can be appreciated, for the imagination fails to visualize it fully. The account of it as given by Mr. Hoover is most enlightening. He terms the Colorado a "second Nile," and the title is appropriate. The compact that has been devised concerning the control of Colorado waters is the result of what virtually is a treaty among states. Such a treaty, subject to the approval of congress, becomes binding as any law of the land.

It is possible to bring under irrigation five millions of acres, and to develop four millions of horse power from the controlled waters of the Colorado. The plan of control is the result of negotiation carried on by seven states. There were jealousies of course. These had to be effaced by contriving a method absolutely fair to all. Such method is believed to have been arranged. It means the creation of a productive area equal in extent to the state of Maryland.

There was necessity for control of the waters as well as for their application to industrial use. Another such riot of the stream as marked the breaking of the torrent into Salton sea, would cause vast destruction, and probably set up conditions that could not be remedied.

The whole country is to be congratulated on the wisdom that has inspired an agreement concerning a project of such economic value.

THE SHAKY CRUST

"As solid as the earth" does not seem to be quite a fitting simile any more. The once imperturbable old crust appears to be getting unstable. It bobs about in a manner not at all becoming its reputed dignity. In several places where never before had there been record of a tremor, the people have been startled by the jolting of the ground beneath their feet. When the earth experiences a brief season of unrest, there is no mistaking the sensation imparted. It reaches the senses as an assured certainty. On the Pacific coast the evidence of a tremor does not cause panic. As a rule the quiver passes almost as soon as its presence is realized, and does no harm. In the rare instances in which it manifests a harmful tendency, it is an innocuous thing compared to the frequent tornadoes and floods of other sections. But doubtless when the people of the middle west felt themselves standing on a shivering surface, they believed that something awful was happening to them.

Earthquakes are explained in various ways. These explanations conflict in such a manner as to neutralize each other, the result being that there is no explanation. Some ascribe the manifestations to the influence of the sun; some to the slipping of geological faults, and others to the pressure of internal heat. Perhaps all of these conditions are contributory age-cies.

It is believed that there are earthquakes somewhere all the time, many of them hidden under the ocean, and evident only by reason of troubled waters. As population increases, and the means of communication become more general, it is natural that knowledge of these phenomena should become more general, and give rise to the erroneous belief that they are more general than in the past.

CURING SPEED MADNESS

For more than a week now the police justices of Los Angeles have been sending speeders to jail. The offenders have been locked up by scores. Some of the more dangerous have received stiff sentences, covering a period of months. Most of them have been let off with only a few days' imprisonment. The effect has been excellent. Drivers in Los Angeles, for the first time since introduction of the automobile, are acting decently and sanely. The craze for rushing through crowds, regardless of the rights of anybody else, seems to have died out. The careful driver, content to move at twenty miles an hour through the zone having this limit, no longer has to fear that the forty-mile demon will hurtle him into kingdom come. For the demon has been tamed. There is no surprise in this. The general belief was that reckless drivers could be cured. Now the proof that it is possible to cure them is of record.

The fact that people were being killed or maimed every day, made no appeal whatever. Pleas for drivers to exercise their reason and cease acting like a band of lunatics, were devoid of result. Even the fine was ineffective, for the offender merely counted it into the day's expenses, and never dreamed of reform. The threat of imprisonment carried no terror, for it was not believed. The outrages of the highway virtually ceased. Many a life would have been saved if the law had been applied when the necessity for applying it first became evident.

REFORM OF THE COURTS

Lawyers of this country assert that the jails are breeding crime rather than preventing it. In this opinion they do not stand alone. The jails are so overcrowded that to keep them decently is impossible. There is great delay in bringing accused persons to trial. Prompt action on a civil case is out of the question. One remedial suggestion is that the number of superior judgeships be materially increased. There now are twenty-two such judgeships.

Whatever may be the value of this suggestion, there are others that come naturally to the mind of the mere outsider, the observer who does not participate in court proceedings, but who feels an interest in the general subject of justice, and in the cost of its proper administration. Judges do not work on a schedule that invariably, in other activities, would be accepted as a full day. Their courts take frequent recess, and are subject to early adjournment. Each judge takes a long vacation. But if it is this there is anything suggestive of culpability, lawyers themselves cannot decline to accept a large share of responsibility for delay.

Trials are permitted to drag to great length. There is haggling over technical points. There are protracted cross-examination intended, not to establish the truth, but to overcome the effect of truth already of record. A lawyer is permitted to spend hours or days in attempt to break down testimony that he knows is veracious, but that left undisturbed would be fatal to his case. When in the end, the verdict goes against his client, he uses up time in preparing an appeal that he knows, the court knows, and the public is fully aware, has no shadow of merit.

With the highest respect for the purpose of the courts, and for the personnel of the bench, the opinion is ventured that the lawyers have not found the solution of the difficulties they mention. They seek to place upon the courts, blame in which they themselves appear to be under moral obligation to share. Just in what measure the courts might correct the dilatory tactics of the bar, it is impossible for the laity to determine. That something should be done without delay to clear the dockets, afford prompt justice, and render the jails less scandalous in character is obvious.

Probably the best way to kill a falsehood is to let it lie.

All things come to those who stop waiting and go after them.

Amateur artists are not dangerous even if their designs are bad.

THE ICEBERG

By DR. FRANK CRANE

An essayist has called our attention to the fact that a human being is like an iceberg, or which only about one-eighth is above the surface of the water and seven-eighths concealed.

What you know of any man is always a very small portion of him just as what you see of him is only his head and hands.

When we talk about understanding a person perfectly, we speak loosely. Nobody but God understands any one perfectly.

In fact, many a woman has lived with a man for twenty years and has found at the end of that time that he is still a stranger.

All she knows about him may be compared with all we know about the Azores, which are the small green peak of a vast mountain mostly submerged.

We discover that there are large portions of the personality of our child which are strange to us. And this is even more true of public characters. After all that has been written, who knows the real Napoleon, or the real William Hohenzollern, or the real Lincoln?

What we know is a fictitious something, a sort of artificial character that has grown up around a central concept that has attracted to itself all manner of myths and stories.

In Walter Lippmann's admirable book, "Public Opinion," he calls attention to the fact that most of our mental pictures, both of great men and of great events, are created by our own imagination feeding upon hearsay.

"Great men," he says, "even during their lifetime are usually known to the public only through a fictitious personality. Royal personages are of course constructed personalities. Whether they themselves believe in their public character or whether they merely permit the chamberlain to stage-manage it, there are at least two distinct selves—the public and real self, the private and human. The biographies of great people fall more or less readily into the history of these two selves. The official biographer reproduces the public life; the revealing memoir the other."

So tenacious are we of our pre-conceived notion of what a public character ought to be that we resent it when we find out that he is different. Hence it is always dangerous to meet great men. If you love your idealization of a popular author, never speak to him. If your mental picture of a great philosopher is one in which he is always sitting with his head pensively in his hands contemplating thumping problems, and if you happen to see him in a clubroom smoking a pipe and playing pinochle in his shirt sleeves, he will never be the same to you again. What you loved and admired was the apex of the island, and its vast concealed depths are disappointingly human.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

EDWIN C. BROOME

Superintendent of Philadelphia's Public Schools.

Interviewed on Most Powerful Influence on Childhood.

"More lives are affected by injudicious reading between the ages of fourteen and sixteen than by any other influence," said Mr. Broome.

"The influences of the street and of companions can be lived down; but what a child reads in books is taken seriously and authoritatively and affects thinking and conduct decidedly. In fact, impressions resulting from reading during this early period of a person's life are to a large extent lasting."

"Too few parents supervise the home reading of their children. Young people are allowed to select their books at will. The result is that poor tastes are formed and strengthened under the very eyes of those who should be most responsible for the training of our youth."

"The age at which a boy or girl begins to feel the desire to read for himself or herself is twelve. Before that time the child has been read to, the books, let us hope, having been wisely selected; but from twelve on youth steps on and seeks for itself. Then it needs guidance, and unless this is given by either the father or the mother or by both, bad reading habits may be found."

"It is true that some parents do not know what books to recommend to their children. This situation is easy to solve. One of the functions of a city library is to furnish lists of children's books and make recommendations. Teachers are ready and anxious at all times to be of like service."

Good reading is a phase of child-life that should not be neglected, for the results of the formation of good reading-habits are the developing of character and the implanting of lasting ideals of life and comfort.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

To get sense into heads where sense finds little fertile soil.
That is a great problem.
To save people in spite of themselves.
To save them from themselves.
All matters of a good deal of difficulty.

To diffuse intelligence.
Not so difficult to diffuse intelligence to practiced and capable and alert minds.
But to diffuse intelligence to stubborn and slow and resentful minds.
That taxes the teacher.

A good deal of intelligence needs to be diffused just at present.

When many of us are traveling at a furious and happy-go-lucky pace.

Not seeming to care how or where or when the end of the race comes.

It is pitiful to see fools riding to death without apparent care of consciousness.

Fools may be saved to the world to some purpose.

For the fool may not always be a fool.

Some day he may gain wisdom and learning.

And if he is cut down before time through his foolishness, then he can never redeem himself.

So fools are worth saving.

And they can be saved.

If we find the means of diffusing intelligence or knowledge to the fools.

And making it germinate.

Which is a difficult task.

But we need not be discouraged.

Man has been lifted considerably since the stone age.

Through experience.

And we may yet be able to help men.

Through experience.

The fools who are killing themselves and others through maniacal speed are worth saving.

And they can be saved.

If we can diffuse intelligence.

And it is the part of wise men with endless patience to diffuse intelligence.

We have managed to diffuse a good deal of intelligence regarding health and hygiene.

Regarding sanitation and infection and all that.

We have saved thousands of lives through getting facts into stubborn heads.

Even if the process has been slow.

So we must have patience in diffusing the knowledge of the present day hazards of speeding.

We must perhaps send many people to jail.

Some may even have to go to prison.

Many will be maimed and some killed.

But the campaign for knowledge must continue.

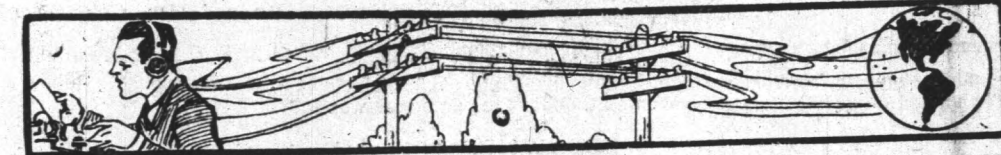

That is the only way we shall make the highways safe.

By persistent and consistent diffusing of intelligence.

And we may do it with propaganda, with clubs, with jail sentence, or however we can.

In the end we shall save the reckless and the foolish from themselves.

And we may save many innocent from the fools.

Songs of the Poets

The ... of the Cloud—By John Henry Newman (1801-1890)

Lead, kindly light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on!

The night is dark, and I am far from home—
Lead Thou me on!

Keep Thou my feet! I do not ask to see
The distant shore—one step enough for me.

I was not ever thus, nor prayed that Thou
Shouldst lead me on.

I loved to choose and see my path; but now
I loved to choose and see my path; but now

Lead Thou me on!

I loved the garish day, and, spite of fears,
Pride ruled my will: remember not past years.

So long Thy power hath blessed me, sure it still Will lead me on.

O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till
The night is gone;

And with the morn those angel faces smile
Which I have loved long since, and lost awhile.

THE ROAD TO HAPPINESS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

At the rainbow's end is a pot of gold. Didn't they tell you about it when you were a child? We know it must be there because nobody has ever brought it back.

But where is happiness? Not in beauty for beauty fades. Not in love, for love dies; not in acquisition for it degenerates into miserliness; not in fame for the end of the rocket's course is a wisp of gray dust that we call ashes.

Happiness is in pushing out one's limitations because such things are the only permanent satisfaction of creative beings.

We are creative beings and the creative force drives us on. That is why possession palls, content cloy and the beauty we have made trembles back to its original elements.

Material things refuse to last because if they were fixed in any mould for more than a brief span we should cease to create, and in ceasing die.

Growth is the law of life and only the mind and body that create can continue to grow. The evolutionary force has set its curse on all finality.

Creation was not finished in six days, nor 6000 days, nor in any space that the mind of man has conceived. Creation is, as it was and will be, and there is no peace outside the creative crucible.

The young are happy because the myriad fingers of life that are busy on their flesh, flexible bodies. Lovers are happy because love is the road to new life. The artist is happy because he is an instrument for the opening of men's understanding; even the stodgy business man is happy piling up his dollars.

Without knowing why he carries that in him that makes imperative that he shall create something. When we quit creating, we cut the golden thread that binds us to all that live, and we die or go mad.

Yet as a nation we hold possession as the ideal of happiness. To possess things, power, love, goods, fame. This is our national ambition.

And so we Americans are a nation of neurotics, the victims of suppressed desires and unused energies. We are a sad nation for we have lost our understanding of realities and the life within rebels.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MOVIE CENSORSHIP

[Worcester Telegram] One way of getting an opinion on what a movie censorship law might do in Massachusetts is to observe what it has done in other states where the law is in force. Those who favor censorship may retort that because other boards have done such things is no proof that they would do them, but there would be the possibility.

Pennsylvania insisted on a legal marriage for Kipling's "Without Benefit of Clergy." Carmen couldn't smoke a cigarette on a screen—in Kansas. Ohio objected to "Treasure Island"—because it "taught boys to be pirates." Philadelphia couldn't look at a picture of sucking pigs. In the "Four Horsemen" the words "It's a boy," to denote the arrival of a son and heir had to go.

A lady who is a censor in Ohio is authority for the refreshing statement that "the public is made up of morons, and needs to be kept in leading strings."

Of course, a Massachusetts censor of the movies wouldn't make such restrictions and wouldn't lay down the law the way the censors have done in other states.

Probably that was what the other states thought too, before the censors came.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

From time to time the statement is made that the large city is to pass. It is to be deserted, because people will prefer to live in the country. Improvement of transit facilities is to make the change possible.

This statement comes from thoughtful people whose opinions ordinarily carry weight.

It is probable that the only foundation for their beliefs, in this instance, is a personal desire for rural life, in so many respects an ideal existence. But while there are in every city individuals who look with longing to the hills and valleys outside, the stream of human movement is from the country to the city. Cities thus are becoming more populous, and if there is any reason to suppose this movement is not to continue, certainly no proponent of the theory has yet cited the reason.

The city must remain the seat of manufacture, and be at the heart of the transportation system. Thus it will house the multitude of workers. Men and women who toil for wages cannot expect to maintain homes at a distance, to be reached by airplane. The rich will have their country places, of course, this rule being even more general than at present, but the exodus due to such circumstance, seems likely to be so small as to make little impression on the total.

It is the nature of mankind to gather in crowds. The one who yearns for solitude is the rare exception. Therefore the great cities will grow greater, and other cities acquire magnitude. If in the remote future the metropolis of today shall be a ruin, explored by wondering visitors, it will be because of some cataclysm of nature, or some change in mortal habit not yet even faintly foreshadowed.

According to one Los Angeles preacher, had Lloyd George been rebuffed by voters as was Thomas Lee Woolwine in the gubernatorial contest, Lloyd George would have resigned. This does not seem to be clear reasoning. Had Woolwine resigned one office because of his defeat for another office, he would have been showing silly and childish pique.

In the experience of Lloyd George, there had been many a clique that howled for his resignation. George paid no attention to such assaults. If at any point there is excuse for drawing an analogy between the cases of the two public men, it is in the similarity of their attitude towards howling cliques.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the national woman's party, declares the organization will pay no attention to the old parties. Probably she would be surprised at the indifference with which the organizations receive this threat, if it is a threat. There does not appear yet any reason why the old parties should not go to the same length in ignoring Mrs. Belmont's group.

Certain individuals are plotting to make Sunday in this state a time of gloom, hardship and sorrow. In other words, deeming joy a sin, they propose a sinless environment for themselves, at the expense of believers in happiness.

Well, the scheme won't work. Californians are not ready to place their souls in the keeping any group; and if they had to do so, never would select the group in question.

Only a few days ago an editor declared that diversity of divorce laws was an excellent thing. It hardly is possible that he believed it, but there is some uncertainty as to whether he was jesting or merely stupid.

More recently the paper in which his intelligence shines, came out in a plea for a uniform divorce law. There is no way of telling in which position it is sincere, but it will be conceded to be at least fifty per cent correct, which is far better than its average.

Perhaps the time will come, even in this generation, when Mrs. Peete shall cease to be considered news. Just now the story goes around that her husband has obtained a divorce, at her request, in order to permit their daughter to grow up in ignorance of the mother's status. This would seem to argue a certain nobility.

As a matter of fact, devoid of all romance, Peete was seeking a divorce before his wife had been suspected of misbehavior. When she was accused, he declined to press the action, apparently deeming her innocent, stood by her as long as her guilt was in any part a matter of conjecture.

The people of this country do not know whether Muscle Shoals should go to Henry Ford or not. They do know that the government has invested millions in a plant there, and they do believe that unless some person of intelligence and capital is permitted to take hold of the situation, the investment will represent a total loss. Therefore they would be glad to observe congress abandoning the policy of sidestepping, and proceeding to settle a matter over which a lot of piffing debate has been wasted.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

After all I've said about the damfoolness of week-end visiting, we've been and done it again. And this time I had a good time. It never happened to me before. Therefore I want to put the history down on paper before it passes into the limbo of forgotten events along with bicycles and high-wheel bicycles.

We've all done these week-end purgatories and we know what happens. One puts on a dinner jacket every night. Lots of us pretend to friends from out of town that we dine that way habitually in the gorgeous security of our homes, but we do not. We haven't butlers at home, either—many of us. Lizzie, the second maid, usually waits on us. And if there isn't a Lizzie, the cook herself brings the dishes in, and occasionally shoots a little line of gossip which goes big at both ends of the table.

Breakfast at week-ends are usually terrible. No use pretending, because they are. Then the week-enders all sit around annoying each other until lunch. If the men manage to get away for a little while the ladies organize Auto da Fe Lodge No. 1, of the Burn 'em Alive Society, and frazz the absent to a crisp. When the men come back they have just time enough before dressing for dinner to explain to their wives that they are sorry that they managed to sneak out and have a little fun by themselves and they will not do it again. Then a solemn and insincere gathering in the dining room. Every one says:

"Ah! Is it not true?" Whenever any one says anything that sounds as though it were either original or else swiped from some good book. But on this week-end all of us had a good time, because we were not on parade. We went to breakfast when we wanted to. Lunch was a cold meat and salad affair. No set hour. Go as you please, eat as you please and where you pleased, so long as you bothered no one. Then at dinner:

"That's the deadly hour, mind you." At least it is for a man who has carried unsociability higher than Einstein ran his mathematics. After dinner and all through the day we did as we pleased. No one popped in with bright ideas about amusement. If I wanted to sit in the library I jolly well could. If I wanted to perch in a tree and call myself a canary I could do that, too. No one tried to prod us into having a good time. We could be social or unsocial, lively or depressed, at will.

But it is the only week-end party in my experience where I didn't have to behave like a person in an English novel.

CHARITY BALL FOR GLENDALE SCOUTS COMMUNITY TREE IS ANNOUNCED

Glendale Post No. 127 to Have Big Event Saturday in Hall

The Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion, will give a charity ball Saturday in the Legion hall, the proceeds to go as a gift from the post to swell the fund of the Glendale community Christmas tree for the needy.

On Friday, December 8th, Comrade Kelly has promised a special entertainment for the evening. During the month of December it will be in order to nominate officers for the next year. The election will be held on Friday, December 22nd, and installation the first Friday of 1923.

As voted by the post at the last regular meeting on account of the Christmas holiday, there will be no meeting held the last Friday night in December.

The road to ruin is always kept in good repair.

GLENDALE SCOUTS MOVE QUARTERS

The Boy Scout headquarters at Glendale have moved their headquarters from 108 North Brand boulevard to 105 1/2 South Brand. They are occupying room 1, in the Flower building.

The scouts announce the publication of a "Weekly Pictorial of National Activities," which merchants are to post in their windows each week.

The pictorial will contain pictures of activities of the scouts throughout the United States.

JEWISH SABBATH HAS 24 PUPILS

The Jewish Sabbath school recently started which meets in Odd Fellows' hall now has 26 pupils. Dr. Hecht of Los Angeles visited the school last Sabbath and gave the children a wonderful talk on Thanksgiving. Mrs. C. L. Viner and Mrs. W. E. Kinney who were instrumental in the organization of the school, are much pleased with its development and will be pleased to welcome any other Jewish children who are residents of the district.

A Daily Tour of Glendale Stores

NEWTON ELECTRIC CO. IS COMPLETE IN ALL LINES

The Newton Electric Company on South Brand is now a complete shop of all electric lines. This beautiful store has in a number of new lines of stock which is the largest in Glendale.

One especially interesting line to the boy, and now that Christmas is so near, is the electrical trains. There are several standard varieties and they are priced in many instances the same and in some instances below prices in Los Angeles.

The radio department is proving of interest to a great many just now as radio apparatus makes a very suitable Christmas gift, either the sets or parts. The boy with the experimental genius or the boy who really experiments with radio is one who is learning at the same time. With the advent of the 500 watt station in Los Angeles, the reception is very clear and satisfactory to even simpler sets, provided they are well constructed.

Other Christmas suggestions may be found in the complete supply of waffle irons, toaster stoves, grills, percolators, curling irons, Christmas tree lighting outfits and others. One will find a larger stock of these than ever before.

In the fixture department it has some wonderful prices in table portables that have already been selling beyond expectation on account of values and low prices which can be offered on account of buying through eastern factories in large quantities.

Now, as never before is their slogan proven, "Since 1910—Glendale's Foremost Electric Shop."

On stepping into the store, one is greeted with beautiful Christmas decorations. Mr. Newton states that the company tries to keep its store up to the growth of Glendale.

Robinson's Men Shop, at 116 South Brand is closing up their second year of business in Glendale. They have increased their stock until it is now twice the size on opening.

They have built a business on standard, nationally advertised brands such as Manhattan shirts, Wilson underwear, Fashion Park clothes, Stetson hats, Dent's gloves and Wilson's socks, and other such articles as house coats, smoking jackets, overcoats, rain coats.

This shop is endeavoring to do the people of Glendale a personal service as well as good goods as can be bought as low or lower than elsewhere.

BROADWAY SHOE STORE IS PLEASSED

After conducting his shoe business at 312 East Broadway, for the past ten months, Joe Smith, proprietor of the Broadway Shoe Store, who has been in the shoe business for years, states that he is entirely pleased with the patronage the people have afforded him, since coming here. From the moment the store was opened the business has grown steadily.

This store makes a specialty of the Star brand of shoes. This is strictly an all-leather shoe, no substitutes being used in any way. The Star brand shoes are furnished for men, women and children, and shoes for dress, work and play are provided. The concern that manufactures the Star brand shoes is the largest in this country. It maintains 50 factories, and has its headquarters in St. Louis. The Broadway Shoe Store is a member of the Co-Operative Shoe and Service Association, which is just being started in Glendale.

COSY SWEATERS AND COLD PROTECTORS AT GORDONS

For these slightly chilly winter days no more useful articles could be found than the attractive sweaters and scarf sets for women and children, such as are displayed at Gordon's Shop at 119 North Brand boulevard, and which would make most acceptable Christmas gifts. There are so many pretty and useful articles displayed at this popular shop as to make a selection most difficult. In one window is shown a varied display of cleverly designed gingham play dresses for the children while in the other window is a number of black satin house dresses with gay embroidery or applied trimmings, which are so popular for the busy housewife.

The dainty lace collars, boudoir caps, silk petticoats (for Dame Fashion says they are to be worn again), and other intimate garments for the feminine wardrobe in silks and laces, such as are shown at this ladies' and children's furnishings shop are enough to make anyone wish to spend hours and dollars in making a choice at this store. A touch of color is given by the beautifully colored corduroy lounging robes shown in the pastel shades of pink, green, blue, and the more brilliant greens, mulberry and orange.

If your Christmas list includes gifts for the babe, you will find a variety of celluloid dolls, rattles, and other things for the happiness of the little one at Gordon's shop. In addition to all these they have a complete line of hosiery, fancy headed blouses, and many, many more wonderful things. You really must visit Gordon's at 119 North Brand boulevard to see for yourself.

ACTING MAYOR CRISWELL OF LOS ANGELES JOINS ISSUE WITH COLONEL EVERINGTON

November 29, 1922.
The Glendale Press, Glendale, California.

Gentlemen: My attention has been called to an article published in the Glendale Press of Tuesday, November 28th, in which I am quoted as stating that promises made by the city government of Los Angeles in the matter of consolidation of the cities of Glendale and Los Angeles "are not worth the paper they are written on."

I wish to assure you that I did not make such statement, as I consider that any promises made by the government officials of this city are worth considerably more than the paper they are written on.

I did say, in conversation with the gentleman who claims to quote me, that any action taken by the city council of this city was not in itself binding upon the future council. But I did not at that time, nor do I now wish to convey the idea that I consider a promise made by the present city government in the matter of furnishing sewage connections for Glendale, or for assistance in securing better telephone rates, to be other than promises that can and will be carried out by any city government.

CORPORAL DAWSON ENTERTAINS HIGH ASSEMBLY

Unusual Observation of Thanksgiving Is Staged
in Three Sessions

An unusual and very entertaining assembly in observance of Thanksgiving was held at Glendale high in three sessions Wednesday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock, at which the speaker was a reconstructed ex-service man of the 17th engineering corps, who was left for dead on the battlefield, one Corporal Leroy Dawson, who was introduced by his cousin, Mr. Miller. He proved a real humorist and made so amusing the tale of the casualties by which he lost a leg, an eye, his nose and other parts of his anatomy (since then restored by plastic surgery and artificial members) that he kept his audience in a roar of laughter. His very obvious pluck and determination to look on the bright side won respect and admiration manifested in a very storm of prolonged applause to which he responded by returning to the stage and telling another army story which went over as well as the rest of his talk.

At the last he had a serious word or two about how many reasons he had for being thankful, saying: "When I first got to the hospital I couldn't see much good ahead of me in the future. I pictured myself as being going around in a wheeled chair, but you see I can get about now as well as anybody and do everything that other people do except perhaps to run, but who wants to anyway? I often think about the first Thanksgiving in the hospital when I have a disappointment, and persuade myself that it will come out right just as that did. My message to you is, don't be sure that everything unpleasant that happens to you is going to keep on being unpleasant. It may be for your own good. Were it not for the fact that I was in that hospital and had to learn how to handle all these accessories, I would not have had all the friends I have now, and I wouldn't trade the friends off for two or three legs. You can always find something to look forward to."

The stage represented a field strewn with cornshocks and littered with pumpkins, and the musical program fitted the occasion. Mrs. Dora Gibson, who directed the school orchestra, explained that the Puritans were essentially religious and came to America because of their religious convictions. For that reason she had selected for the orchestra numbers two hymns of the period, the first being one that is commonly sung to "How Firm a Foundation," the second a Christmas hymn. These were played with dignity and appreciation, also the two closing numbers, "America" and the "National Emblem March" which served as an exit.

About thirty girls in the gleeful mood in Puritan black with white cap, apron and kerchief, looking very sweet and demure, sang two numbers, "A Thanksgiving Prayer," and "A Fortress is Our God," under direction of Mrs. Florence Parker. It seemed to some of the listeners they had never sung so well. Their attack was good if not perfect, they sang together and in time, and their enunciation showed great improvement. Mrs. Parker had reason to feel real satisfaction in their performance.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Toll and family are undergoing the discomfort of a thorough renovation of their beautiful home on Kenneth road. The hardwood floors have been resurfaced, the walls decorated and other work done which has effected great improvement. They hope to be settled in their renewed home by the end of the week but will go out for Thanksgiving dinner.

Mrs. Barbara Peterman, of Fort Collins, Colo., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Faulkner of 1211 East Wilson avenue over Thanksgiving.

These functions are only such as would be furnished by the city government to any section of the City of Los Angeles, and no city government would for one minute think of attempting to furnish upon a portion of the city unfair treatment in any of these matters under any circumstances.

The communication forwarded to the Consolidation Club of Glendale recently, in reply to a series of questions which it had propounded to the city council, was endorsed by the city council before being forwarded to it, and I am of the opinion that each member of the council would consider, if a consolidation of the two cities is effected, that the honor of the City of Los Angeles could be maintained only by carrying out all of the statements made therein.

As an indication of the good faith of this city I might call your attention to the fact that the city engineer's office is already at work upon plans for the sewage disposal system spoken of in that communication.

Very truly yours,
RALPH L. CRISWELL,
President of the city council and Acting Mayor.

GLENDALEANS TO ATTEND SUNSET COUNTRY CLUB

A party of Glendale folks who are enjoying their Thanksgiving day at the grand opening dinner and dance at the Sunset canyon country club today includes Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reith and family, of 1101 East Wilson avenue, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Henderson and Miss Marie Milligan.

DR. DUNLOP TELLS OF BELIEF ON JESUS

Evangelist at Tropico Presbyterian Church Preaches
Interestingly

"We are told in the Bible," said Evangelist Dr. H. P. Dunlop at the Tropico Presbyterian church, "to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. What is to believe on Jesus? Well, by answering this question tonight the way of salvation will be made plain. To believe on a man means to have confidence in him, in what he claims to be—whether a doctor, a lawyer, a banker or a merchant. So to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ means to put confidence in Him in what He claims to be. Jesus claims to be: 1. Our sin bearer. Christ Himself bears our sin on the tree. 2. Deliverer from the power of sin today. 'If the Son shall set you free ye shall be free indeed.' 3. To be God. 'He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father.' 4. An infallible guide and teacher. 'I am the way, the truth, the life; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness.'"

"How does faith manifest itself? 1. Assurance of sins forgiven. The blood of Jesus cleanseth from all sin today. 2. Trusting Christ for victory over sin. 'Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory.' 3. Accepting His teachings. The Bible is the only infallible rule of life and practice. 4. Obeying Him. 'If ye love me keep my commandments.'"

"So when you put your faith in Jesus, in what He claims to be, and obey Him you can say this is believing on the Lord Jesus Christ and you at that moment have salvation. Is it plain?"

Tonight (Thursday) regular service at the revival with special music. Theme, "Create in me a clean heart." 7:30 to 8:30 prompt.

YANKEE DODDLE, Jr., IS NOVELTY AT THE GLENDALE

No picture of modern times provides such a novelty and sensation as that presented by M. J. Burnside in the exciting and thrilling production, "Yankee Doodle Jr." which is scheduled for a two days stay at the Glendale theatre.

Yankee boy breezes into the hotbed of a South American revolution selling fireworks. He becomes enmeshed in the center fire of blood and thunder tempest, unseats a villainous contender to the throne and falls in love with the pretty daughter of the president of the republic.

A wonderful canine actor plays an important part in the big picture.

MADRIGAL CLUB HOLDS REHEARSAL

The Madrigal club had an excellent rehearsal Monday afternoon at 1:30 under the direction of Mrs. Florence Parker. It is practicing for its concert the latter part of January, the program having been completed and rehearsed. Two new members were elected to the chorus, bringing its enrollment to about 40.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRA YHAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Advertisement.

Dated the 15th day of November, 1922.

By order of the Board of Directors, (Corporate Seal) VERNON M. BRYDOLF, Secretary of the Glendale Printing and Publishing Company.

There is a Reason for Thanksgiving in a Bank Account

One need look no further than the bank deposits in this institution to find cause for heartfelt Thanksgiving this year.

The hundreds of thrifty Glendale folks who carry their accounts here know the satisfaction and contentment that comes with having ready money in the bank.

And the community as a whole can see in our large and increasing deposits sound evidence of the splendid progress and prosperity enjoyed in the Glendale district.

Let us in all sincerity express our gratefulness for our blessings—and pull together for the even greater growth that lies ahead of us.

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactorily fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the value of the above the use of our complete filling system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm considers its elementary duties.
